The structure, which will overlook the St. Joseph river, will be one of the most imposing at St. Mary's when completed. Bedford stone will be the material used for the first story, while the upper ones will be finished with fine pressed brick with stone trimmings. There will be little interior decoration and the principal apartments will be finished in oak and mahogany. The building will be of a T shape and have a frontage of 230 feet and be 70 feet in wing depth and 190 feet in the extreme depth. In semi-detached wings the most improved sanitary systems will be located. The completion of this building will mark an innovation at St. Mary's, for it is henceforth to furnish boarders with private rooms. One hundred and twenty-five rooms will be at the disposal of its students and the academy will have at its control an equipment second to none of its

EARLHAM COLLEGE.

Girls Begin Basketball Practice-History Club and Ionian Society.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 26.-The girls at Earlham College have commenced active work for the basketball season. Regular gymnasium work was taken up the past week and much enthuslasm is shown. Last season the team won every game, defeating Miami and other strong clubs. All of the old players except Miss Elliott and Miss Taylor are back and will play. Among the new players Miss Hubbard is the most promising candidate for the team. The rivalry is spirited because the Girls' Atheletic Association will award the "E" to the players who take part in two winning games. No schedule has as yet been arranged by Miss Lewis, the manager of the team, but she states that a full schedule will be played and that strong teams will be brought to this city. Better accommodations can now be offered in the gymnasium, which has been remodeled. The field has been lengthened twenty feet. The officers of the Girls' Athletic Association are Miss Gertrude Wiltsie, president; Miss Nellie Davis, vice president; Miss Ruby Clark, secretary; Miss Elizabeth Middleton, treas-

She was equipped with only four six-pounders on her trip down from San Francisco, most of her armament having been consigned to Colon with the intention of transporting it overland to be placed on the cruiser when she arrived at Panama. This additional armament consists of a fifteen-pounder, two six-pounders, two machine and several smaller guns.

Many Soldiers Dying. KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 26.-The German steamer Hercynia reached here to-day from Colon, Colombia. Her officers report that considerable fighting is going on in the interior of that country, the revolutionists taking advantage of the withdrawal of government troops for service on the isthmus. At Savanilla the government soldiers are dying at an alarming rate from fever and privations. While the Hercynia was moored at Savanilla there were on the pier the bodies of several soldiers who had died there and the remains had not been removed. Disease is rife on that side of the coast. The ship's officers had to check their own cargo at Savanilla and do other work for themselves, to perform which Colombians are generally employed, it being imposhsible to get local help. The situation on the isthmus remains the same.

PORTO RICAN MISSIONS.

Bishop Hanburn's Account of His Work in the Islands.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 .- The Right Rev. Jas. H. Hanburn, bishop of Porto Rico, at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church today, told, in an informal way, of his work on the island, to which he was sent as a missionary in February, 1901. In June he was ordained a bishop. He said in part: "At Ponce we have a church. For many years it was the only Protestant church in any of the Spanish possessions. In 1898 the American troops came to the city, and among them were several loyal sons of the brotherhood of St. Andrew. They went in, swept the church and garnished it, rang the bell and held the first service which had been held in the church for years. Seven miles from Ponce, on a little island, we have another church. The rector is a black man, but he is well educated and has great influence with his people. For the last three years this good man has been totally blind. He has spent his whole life there and he asked that another man be sent and that he receive $300 a year so that he may remain and be of what assistance he can. In San Juan we are now erecting a church which will cost $15,000. I have $10,000 toward it and I want the The bishop dwelt at some length on the temptations which surround young men who have gone to Porto Rico from the United States. He said that to do any effective work among them he must have what he has planned already he must have | $30,000 and he begged that it be given with-

Presidents Brice, of Columbus, and Watkins, of Indianapolis, of the American Association, were in conference with members of the board at the Hotel Victoria nearly all day. In the evening they were joined by President T. W. Van Brunt, of the St. Joseph club, of the Western League. Mr. Van Brunt is the moneyed man of this shot. league, and has advanced the largest part of the finances for the carrying out of the war that has proven so disastrous to both the Western League and the American Association during the past season.

The scheme for the adjustment of the difficulties as mapped out to-night calls for the withdrawal of the Western League clubs in both Kansas City and Milwaukee and the turning over of these two cities to the American Association. At the same time the promoters of the Western League teams in these two cities are to be taken care of to the extent that they may be given an interest in the American teams, or they may be rewarded financially outright. With the withdrawal of the Western League clubs from both these cities can Association would then apply for and receive protection under the national agreement of the National Association, coming in as a class "A" organization on a par with the Eastern League. The Western League could take in two smaller cities or stand with a six-club circuit and come in as a class B or class C organization under the national agreement.

Labor Unions Learning the Value of an Inviolate Word. Chicago Journal. The labor unions are fast learning one vital lesson, and that is if they expect to win and keep public approval and sympathy they must stick to their contractstheir word must be as good as their bond. They are learning that business is business, that when engagements are, entered upon they must be carried out, and that the relations between employers and employed are not to be ruptured at the mere whim of a walking delegate or upon the demand of an irresponsible majority in a union. Yesterday the Chicago Federation of Labor ranged its very decisive influence on the side of the inviolability of contracts and would not countenance the strike of the Wholesale Grocers' Employes' Union which had been ordered by the latter on Friday night.

The reason was that the union had en-the wholesale grocers providing that in cases of dispute all difficulties should be referred to arbitration, and this contract was approved and signed by the executive board of the Federation of Labor. "The trouble could have been settled without any strike," said President Lighthall in his address to the federation, "If the men had used patience and good judgment. When that agreement was made the federation was represented through its executive board, and we signed with the rest. It is up to us to see that its provisions are observed. If we fail, where will our prestige be when we go out in the future to settle difficulties between workingmen and their employers. They will refuse to have anything to do with us, saying we have no power to force the unions to carry out their obligations, and that to deal with us would be a waste of time.' That is the whole case in a nutshell. There must be honesty and fair dealing on the part of the unions, and all the more because they cannot legally be compelled to carry out their contracts. What they promise to do is on honor, and that is the highest sanction any man or set of men can have for adherence to their word.

RESENTS THE CHARGES AGAINST ITS FOOTBALL TEAM.

Athletic Committee of the College t

Investigate the Accusations Made by I. M. T. H. S.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

FRANKLIN, Ind., Oct. 26 .- The students and faculty of Franklin College and the citizens of Franklin are indignant over the accusation made against the college and its football team by Prof. R. Hall, of the Manual Training High School, while in fancy. this city yesterday afternoon, and also over the charges against them in Mr. Mc-Comb's statement in this morning's paper concerning the football game here yesterday between Franklin College and the of the Franklin team, have both declared serious nature that Prof. A. E. Bestor, has taken up the matter and will call a meeting of the committee to-morrow afternoon to consider it. The committee consists of Prof. A. E. Bestor, Dr. C. H. Hall and Dr. F. W. Brown. Professor Bestor states that every charge will be "completely and impartially investigated." If the more serious charges against the players are found to be true it will probably mean the end of the football team, as the members of the committee are unanimous in their opposition to football when played in anything but a sportsmanlike manner. Seldom have the students and citizens been so aroused over anything of this kind as they are at present, it being the opinion of all that Franklin has

APPLAUSE FOR JONES. Toledo's "Golden Rule" Mayor on the

Coal Strike. CHICAGO, Oct. 26.-Political parties were scored at a meeting here to-night of the Chicago Philosophical Society by Samuel M. Jones, the "golden rule" mayor of Toledo. He characterized the whole party system as "childish, immature and imbecile." One of his sentences that called forth applause was spoken when he referred to the action of President Roosevelt bringing about a settlement of the coal strike. "The President became more than a President-he became a man," he said. "The coal strike in 1902 will be found in the future to have made the largest contribution to the cause of human liberty of anything since Lincoln signed the emancipation proclamation," is the way Mr. Jones #### summed up the coal strike. The Beef Packers' "Agreement."

George Buchanan Fife, writing on "The

So-called Beef Trust," in the November Century, says: The government possessed of countless depositions, affidavits and "exhibits," is convinced that a beef trust is in existence and is determined to destroy it. Whatever it may succeed in proving, how many of the allegations embraced in its long petition it may establish as facts, there is | ter of the forehead would have answered no doubt that a working "agreement" has all demands and been a decided blue or long existed among the large packing cor- black. "Further than that," he continued, "there is no bond between any two houses as to and man will be created on scientific lines output. It is not an illegal bond, nor is it | and with due reference to art and conintended to effect a restriction of trade to the detriment of the people; it is for natural and necessary self-protection. For instance, one of the packing houses calls us up by telephone and asks, 'Are you sending any extra cars anywhere to-day?'

We reply, let us say, 'Yes; we are sending six to New York,' because we learn from the report of our agent that the market there requires such a shipment. Another day we call him up and ask him a similar question and, similarly, abide by his answer, should it be like ours. The answer is not begotten of speculation as to the amount of beef the market will take; it is based upon fact. We could not afford to send six cars of beef to New York or anywhere else upon the chance of disposing of them. A side of beef is marketable too short a time for that.

Hungary, a lively town of some 700,000 inhabitants, a telephone newspaper. The copy is spoken into transmitters in the editor's office, and each subscriber has an instrument in his house. One of the most praiseworthy features of the "Telephone Newspaper" is its ex-traordinary cheapness. Each subscriber pays but two cents a day for its many advantages, and there are no fees for having a receiver fitted to a house. No one need continue subscribing to the speaking newspaper for longer than four months. On these favorable terms each station is provided with the receiving appliance, having two ear tubes, so that two people can listen at the same time. The apparatus can be fixed wherever the subscriber pleases at a bed or sofa, at a writing desk, or in a special room

At present the telephone newspaper is confined to Buda-Pesth, but for some time past preparations have been going on for ing it to the whole country. manager of a great French daily paper intends to introduce the invention into Paris, having been struck by its possibilities when the apparatus was exhibited at the Paris

Boston Advertiser. The balloon tragedies which have taken place in France very recently are a remarkable confirmation of the opinions expressed by Jules Verne, in one of his less well-known stories, "Five Weeks in a Balloon." In that story he puts into the mouth of his principal hero a learned disquisition on the science of aeronautics. The disquisition is characterized by all the peculiarities which belong to the astonishing series of novels in which this now aged French writer has mingled veritable knowledge of the laws of nature with wild flights of When all Europe, according to "Five Weeks in a Balloon," is ringing with ex-clamations of excitement about the announced project of exploring equatorial Africa by means of a balloon, the explorer is asked by what means he intends to guide his aerial vehicle. When the venerable romancer of science read the partculars of that latest and most shocking accident to a dirigible balloon the balloon which left the outskirts of Paris early last Monday morning, and from which the two occupants were hurled to their death a couple of hours later, he could not have fairly been blamed for saying to himself: "I told you so; though to say it publicly would have been most cruel. Every detail published in the newspapers yesterday, in explanation of the failure of the balloon to do what was ex-pected of it, all the dreadful nonsuccess of the intricate steering gear and other ingeniously invented machinery, was nothing more nor less than a demonstration of the validity of the reasons given, more than a quarter of a century ago, by Jules Verne in his "Five Weeks in a Balloon," in proof that a dirigible balloon that will be anything more than a dangerous toy is scientific self-contradiction It ought to be added that neither these tragical failures in practice nor Jules Verne's demonstrations in theory have any

Eminent Selentist Shows That Man Is

Badly Designed. Detroit Free Press.

Just now, when most of mankind is ready to believe that perfection has been reached in physical humanity, along comes a Belgian professor to take the conceit out of us and prove that even a self-made man has a score of flaws in his make-up. We are, to begin with, provided with eight surplus teeth. If we had eight less we could chew our beeksteak and gum just as well, and the chances of toothache would be largely reduced. Then there are four fingers where but three are required to count our cash, button our collars er use the bucksaw and ax. It is the same with the toes. The third one could have been left off the foot without the slightest detriment to man or woman, and the saving in corn cures would have been a pretty penny by this date. Nature made whiskers to grow on the faces of at least three-fourths of the male population of the world. The Belgian professor defies any one of us to show where whiskers beautify or benefit, while he can name no less than a dozen evils rising from them. We have more ribs than needed by two. He proves this by counting the hoops on a barrel. As a rule all human noses are made on too large a scale, and the consequence is that a cold in the head takes hold of a person with extra severity.

The ear of a whale, the professor says is relatively only half the size of that of a man, while his bulk is more than a hundred times greater. It was suspected that most men had too much cheek, but now we know that all men have too much ear. As the monkey has no use for a fore-head, why should it have been given to man? Had the extra space been added to his neck every man could have worn a collar a foot high without sawing his chin. It is further asserted by the professor that nineteen out of twenty people squint and that ninety-nine out of every hundred have off-colored eyes. One eye in the cenof Venus, Apollo, Hercules and other famous models, and with a two-foot rule and a bit of chalk has figured out that each of us all right-not even the professor him-self-and we can't expect to be for at least 500 years to come. By that time Dame Nature will have served her apprenticeship

Nothing would please him more than the election of a Congress in harmony with his political principles. Nebraska's share is six members of the House of Representatives.
